

Feeding the Poor or Saving the Environment

As you can see, nowadays, money is so powerful and can empower someone who holds much money in their hands. They can do anything what they want by spending it to exchange their contentment. Not only the stuffs or things money can buy but also people especially monetary slaves. How about you? If you have the big deal of money in your hands, what you will do with it need to think very carefully. If you are the rich, how can do you spend money to develop your society to have the better condition? In the society, everywhere, there must be the problems of poor people and environment and these need much money to improve in order to have the good life. In my point of view, I want to spend my money to save the environment because it will indirect help the other problems in the society. Globally, people stay in the different environments but the same problems happens in the different places too. How that could be is that they do not care about what they do with the environment. Environmental destruction has been increasing rapidly since the scientific breakthrough was risen from the past to now.

Firstly, the reason why I want to spend money to save the environment is that the well-organized environment can give enough natural resources for people to consume in every year and evermore especially to develop the irrigation system-water supply, the agriculture-chemical control, the waste disposal-recycle system, and transportation system. We will have clean water and food, less infection, and longer term of fuel using.

Secondly, the idea I need to solve the environmental problems is that poor people will have more chances to buy more foods, clothes, to reach medical services, and to have their own houses according to the first reason. If we very well arrange the environment, enough resources can produce the four needed factor to everybody. When everything is enough, people both rich and poor can meet the demand. The things or stuffs in daily life will not be too expensive anymore.

Additionally, the well-organized environment give no or less pollution for people living in the society. When drinking the water and eating food, we are sure that they are clean. When breathing in and out, we are sure to get the fresh and pure air into our bodies. Unbelievably, people get better things for their lives, they will be stronger. There will be less disease and illness and people can save more money and the medical officers work more efficiently with fewer patients.

In concluding, I believe that saving the environment does not only solve the facing problems but it is the long term of solving problems. If you have much enough money to spend for your pleasure and it left some, you can donate it for saving the environment on behalf of a person living and using the natural resources like other people in the society. However, only a single person cannot change the environment to be livable and cozy but everyone has to help each other for our future and our new generations.
